Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown returned Monday, the 3rd from a ten-day outing at Salinas. While there they went to Spreckles, seven miles distant, to see the great beet sugar works of Spreckles and Co. This company employs about 500 hands. They have a capacity for handling 3000 tons of beets per day, from which they make about 9000 sacks of sugar. These works are said to be the largest and the most complete sugar works in the world.

Mr. T. L. Sharp finds it much easier to arrest criminals than horses. As he was opening the door one night last week to drive into the stable his horse started off paying no heed to his official "Whoa!" The horse made the circuit of several blocks, sometimes in the road and sometimes on the sidewalk. He finally came to a standstill in the orchard just north of Mr. Poston's. The result was a broken harness, a buggy with both shafts gone, the hind axle sprung, three spokes broken, and the top put out of commission.

Observatory Lodge paid a visit to Morning Star Lodge at Campbell last Saturday night for the purpose of confering degrees upon recent initiatives of the Lodge. The visiting Lodge had a splendid drill team and did excellent work in confering the degrees. At the close of the lodge meeting a toothsome banquet was served by the ladies of the Morning Star which was enlivened by speeches from the visiting lodge members. Deputy District Grand Master A. A. Brown was also present and made a fine speech.

Fair Exchange, Yet a Robbery

While Gustave Dore was at Ischl and wandering about the mountains he became much interested in a country wedding and sketched it on the spot. He put the sketch into a book in the pocket of his paletot and went back to the hotel to dinner. After dinner he looked for the sketch. It was gone. Angry at the theft, the artist called the landlord and made complaint, but no trace of the book was found. From Ischl Dore went to Vienna, and there he found a letter and a parcel awaiting him. The letter, which was anonymous, read thus:

"Sir, I stole your book at Ischl. The sketch was so charming that I could not resist the temptation of having it in my possession, and I knew very well you would never consent to sell it to me. But theft is neither my trade nor my habit, and I beg you to accept as a souvenir of my crime and my enthusiasm for your talent the walking stick which will reach you at the same time as this letter."

The cane was one with a massive gold head in which was set a gem of value.

Scandalous.

"What do you think? Mrs. Zizzel, who never goes to church, has won the first prize in the church lottery!"—Meggendorfer Blatter.

After coming to Campbell he was given the very best medical attention—four extra physicians being called in consultation—but the sick man did not seem to respond at all to the medicine.

The funeral was held Thursday at 10:20 a. m. from the funeral parlors of the Thos. McNally Sons, thence to St. Joseph's Church where a requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul. The burial was at Calvary cemetery.

MANUFACTURING IN CALIFORNIA

Born ten years ago on the east side world renowned Golden Gate stands of San Francisco Bay and facing the city of Richmond. Few indeed of the people of our wonderful and glorious State of California realize what has taken place in these past ten years at this wonderful haven for manufacturies and the beginning has only been recorded. California, a State which has made a name for herself in everything but manufactories, seems now about to claim her rights in this respect, and Richmond has been the chosen place, not out of sentiment but for sound business reasons. The natural advantges of location and cheapness of fuel have solved the problem, Transportation facilities not equaled in this State, a location where rail and water meet. Richmond has what no other city of San Francisco Bay, or in fact any other city of the whole State enjoys, and that is deep water front, and Richmond has 14 miles of this.

At the present time there are about 45 manufacturies at Richmond with a monthly pay roll of $400.00 and the manufacturers of the country are themselves just awakening to the wonderful advantages offered by Richmon. It was Rockefeller, Morgan, Ripley, Harriman and the pullmans, those hardheaded, far seeing financiers, who first saw the advantages of Richmond and set the example by investing over $30,000,000 there, and they locate, nowhere, out of sentiment. Naturally others were soon to follow, until today Richmond is beginning to stand out on the map. California is not a State to take a back seat in anything that pertains to the soil and why should she not be one of the foremost States in manufacturing?

Along with all these manufacturies has come the natural growth which is sure to follow and where ten years ago there were less than 100 people there are today 18,000 prosperous inhabitants and Richmond's growth bids fair to reach into the hundred thousands before many years have rolled around. The people of the State welcome you, Richmond, and are looking forward to the time when your name will be linked with the Pittsburgs, Chicagos, and New Yorks, and the outlook now is that our hopes are sure to be realized in the no distant future.

Lanz vs. Feebeck

In Justice Farley's Court last Monday morning W. J. Feebeck was called to answer a complaint of E. G. Lanz for stealing wood from the latter while a tenant of his house on Dillon avenue. F. L. Thomas was the prosecuting attorney aud R. C. McCormish represented the defendant. Judge Farley stated that he was too familiar with the circumstance connected with the case and therefore had called in JudgeGlendenning of Santa Clara. In the complaint Mr. Lanz claimed that Mr. Feebeck had taken two tier of oak wood which had been placed in the basement and under the front porch, where it had been securely boarded up. In the testimony of the complainant it was brought out that Mr. Lanz had never seen the wood, and he simply had the word of Mr. Tony Nobro, of whom he had purchased the place, that the wood had been placed under the house. When Mr. Nobro was placed on the stand is was found that he had put the wood there over four years ago and had not seen it since. It was further brought out that several tenants had occupied the house in the meantime and it had also been unoccupied at different times. Upon motion of the defendant's attorney, Mr. McCormish, the case was dismissed without Mr. Feebeck or his witnesses being called to the stand.

ODDITIES IN THE WEEK'S NEWS.

Birds Thrash Seed Fields.

San Jose.— Mongolian pheasants, which were introduced into this country some ten years ago at the instance of the game authorities, are doing great injury to the seed farms south of here, it is said. The birds fly close to the ground and flopping along rows of plants have thrashed out hundreds of dollars worth of seeds with their wings. The matter has been reported to the Fish and Game Commission, and it is probable that a petition will be presented to the next Legislature demanding the amendment of the law protecting the pheasants.

Mongolian pheasants did not at first seem to thrive well, but the last few years they have been multiplying rapidly and have become one of the worst pests against which the seed farmers have to contend.

Missed Rat But Hit the Pies.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—A rat coming out of a stable in the rear of a place with a chicken in its mouth moved Frank Sturino of this city to get busy with a double-barreled shotgun. He added rock salt to the load of bird shot and fired both barrels. When he came to and learned the rat had escaped he was despondent, but his troubles were not over, for soon he was arrested on complaint of Mrs. John Michaelson, a boarding house mistress, on a charge of shooting off firearms. She said it was bad enough to pepper the house with shot, but when her fresh pies cooling on the porch were filled with rock salt and her boarders threatented to quit, it was too much.

Pauline, Where Art Thou?

Washington.—Lost for ten days, Miss Pauline Wayne, who left her Wisconsin home for an indefinite stay with President Taft's family at the White House is being sought by secret service men, railroad detectives and employes of the executive office. The popular tune whistled about the White House stables is, "Wonder Who's Milking Her Now," for Miss Pauline is a cow. She is to succeed Bossy, who died of over-eating last spring, if the railroad finds out what has become of her.

Train Stalled by Mosquitoes.

Chicago.—An immense swarm of mosquitoes routed the crew of a freight train just outside of Granite City, Ill., and for three hours it remained stalled, the men being unable to get back to it. Finally George Shelton, engineer, and Thomas McLean, fireman, after being bitten until their faces were almost unrecognizable, built bonfires beside the engine and were able to get back into the cab.

Lightning End a Lawsuit.

Frankfort, Ky.—A lawsuit of long standing was settled when lightning struck and destroyed a large tree in front of Miss Margaret Innis' home near here. Road builders wanted to cut it down years ago, but Miss Innis got an injunction. Hundreds of dollars had been spent in litigation but the courts had never been able to decide the case.

Soot Saved His Life.

Chicago.—While watching an aeroplane high above the city, Roy Smith, 20 years old, lost his balance and fell 60 feet down the chimney of a skyscraper on the lake front. When firemen chopped an opening into the base of the chimney, they found Smith had landed in a big heap of soot and was only slightly bruised.

Septic Tank System for Petaluma.

Petaluma.—Petaluma will soon have a septic tank system to overcome these were conditions that have been a source of annoyance for several years. About $15,000 will be spent on the improvements.

Infernal Machines Responsible In Los Angeles Outrage

Los Angele. — A terrific explosion, distressing in detail and appalling in its consequences, completely demolished the six-story building occupied by the Los Angeles Times, killing at least 20 employes and injuring more than a score who barely escaped with their lives, at 1:10 o'clock on the morning of October 1. Simultaneous with the blast, the gas ignited from the bursted pipes throughout the building, and the flames leaped from a hundred windows and darted far above the roof.

The working force of the Times numbers about 175, but about 50 employes had left within a half hour before with the winding up of the first edition.

The scenes that followed the explosion and fire are indescribable. Men cut off from ordinary exits by flames darting from every side, rushed hither and thither, looking for means of escape, and were forced finally to jump from second and third story windows to the street below.

Most of the serious injuries were the results of these leaps for life. Even this opportunity of escape was denied to those who are numbered among the missing, most of whom were buried under the ruins. They died crushed to death under the crumbling walls, or suffocated by the smoke and flames.

Several men were seen by spectators come to the upper windows a few minutes after the fire started and wave and cry for help. The firemen failed to get the ladders up quickly enough and the flames burst out below them. Nets were stretched and the people at the windows were called to jump. Many did and they alighted safely. Others hesitated, and fell back into the flames.

The building of the Baumgart Publishing Company, adjoining the Times, was almost completely destroyed together with the plant of the Weekly Graphic.

The city had hardly awakened to a knowledge of the fullness of the disaster when the news that a dynamite bomb had been found under the residence of Felix Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, swelled the excitement.

The bomb, one of the clockwork kind, containing 15 sitcks of dynamite, had been timed to do its work at the exact moment that the explosion occurred in the Times building, but some flaw in its mechanism had failed to explode on time. The finding of this bomb was succeeded by the discovery of another under the windows of the Wiltshire Boulevard residence of General Harrison Gray Otsi, president of the Times-Mirror Company and editor-in-chief of the Times. This bomb was concealed in a valise and hidden under some bushes. It was discovered, thrown into the street, and exploded tearing up the ground and doing other minor damage.

One hundred men were put at work digging for the bodies believed to be buried in the ruins of the Times building. Late in the afternoon the first body was recovered. It was that of J. Wesley Reaves, private secretary to Assistant General Manager Harry Chandler, and was found where Mr. Chandler had left him a few minutes before the explosion. Only the unusual circumstance that his wife had called for Mr. Chandler to take him home before his usual hour had saved him from a like fate.

As soon as they could be reached, the Mayor called the City Council into extraordinary session, and $25,000 was appropriated to be used for the purpose of finding the alleged dynamiters.

A conference was also held between the labor leaders and the Chief of Police, and it was mutually decided to call off a labor demonstration that had been planned for Monday against an anti-picketing ordinance recently passed by the Council and under which a large number of arrests have been made and men sent to jail.

The first step taken in the direction of ascertaining who are the guilty parties was the appointment of an investigating committee of five. One of the committee is William Mulholland, superintendent of the Los Angeles Acqueduct, the big municipal water project. Mr. Mulholland has identified one of the sticks of dynaite found in the Zeehandelaar bomb by its wrapping as part of a shipment for the acqueduct made from Giant, Cal., September 20.

A reward of $7,500 for the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible for the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building was made by Secretary Treasurer O. A. Tveitmoe of the State Building Trades Council.

General Otis, owner and editor of the Times, arrived from Mexico during the day and was met at the depot by 200 members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. A telegram which preceded him read as follows:

"Imperial Junctionn, Cal. — Harry Chandler, the Times, Los Angeles, Cal.: Your wire with its terrible news only reached me this morning. Am amazed at the desperation of the criminal conspirators in destroying the Times building and slaying its loyal defenders, whose loss I deeply deplore, but the Times will live on, bravely defending the vital and essential principle of industrial freedom under the law, which must yet triumph in the entire nation. I will be home at 3:30. Meet me at the station."

A disavowal for the responsibility of dynamiting the Times has been issued by the strike committee of the metal trades, the members of which have been on strike for some months, and between which organization and the Times there has been great bitterness. The comittee's statement follows:

"The union labor men in Los Angeles deeply deplore the loss of life and injury in the explosion and fire at the Times plant. The union declares that the statement in the Times that the explosion was caused by some person or persons connected with organized labor here or elsewhere is false. Ever since the beginning of union labor here violence of every sort has been condemned in public and private. No union man has been permitted to commit any act of violence, be it ever so slight, nor have the unions failed to rigorously demand that their members obey the laws.

We believe that success can only be won by peaceful reasoning and showing the laboring man his rights and duties.

"We therefore deny unequivocally that the unions, nor any union man in our knowledge, had anything to do with any violence against the Times' employes or property.

"We stand ready and willing to do all in our power to aid in a thorough investigation of the explosion."

Repulsive Malady of the Hindu Must Stop Influx

San Francisco.—An effective dam to the torrent of Hindu immigration that has been surging the shores of the Pacific Coast at a speed of 5000 of India's riff-raff a year has been discovered by Dr. M. W. Glover of the Angel Island Hospital.

Sixty-five per cent of the turbaned natives of the Punjab are infected with hookworm! After a careful examination of 17 applicants among the hordes of Hindu laborers awaiting admission to this port, Dr. Glover has found 12 to be the victims of this loathsome malady. This dangerous and contagious disease is the most dreaded in medical annals and spreads at an alarming rate.

Though the average Hindu, from time immemorial, has been peculiarly susceptible to many abhorrent physical afflictions, he has had little difficulty in effecting an entrance to San Francisco. The comparative ease with which India's unfortunate sons have gained entrance to California has raised a storm of protest, but as yet little has been done to abate the evil.

Dr. Glover's discovery is expected to bring about the necessary remedy, as the Federal statutes debar aliens from landing in the United States who are victims of dangerous diseases. Thousands of Japanese have been denied admission because of their sufferings from trachoma upon the certificate of the surgeons at Angel Island, and there is no appeal afforded them from deportation.

The hookworm is admitted by the medical profession as a far more dangerous malady, and it is thought by the opponents of the Hindu invasion that Dr. Glover's discovery will successfully stem the tide of India natives that has been a menace to the white labor market here.

The alleged leniency of Immigration Commissioner North to the Hindu influx can be of no avail now, say the exclusionists, who are preparing to place the matter before the National Immigraton Board, now sitting in Washington on matters affecting the conduct of Hart H. North in his administration of the affairs of the local immigration service.

All Hindus who arrive hereafter will be held for examination, and those found to be victims of the hookworm will be deported at once.

Other aliens seeking admission here will also be inspected for this repulsive ailment, and it is expected that more than two-thirds of the applicants will be deported for this malady alone. Two Chinamen who have been subjected to the hookworm examination have been found to possess the contagious disease.

RING OF DOORBELL MADE TWO HEARTS BEAT AS ONE

But Court Frowns on Unusual Romance That Lasted Only a Week.

San Francisco.— A peculiar story of sudden love and more sudden marriage was unfolded in a decision of the Supreme Court handed down recently which reversed a judgmnet of Judge Graham and ordered the $1500 estate of Friedrich Bose taken from his widow, Maud Bose, and given to his mother, Bertha Bose.

In Sepember, 1906, Bose was looking for rooms in Oakland. He inquired at a cottage in East Oakland and proposed marriage to the woman who answered the doorbell. The proposal was accepted and the two went to Los Angeles and were married. The woman had a daughter 11 years old. The two lived together one week, when the wife, Maud, tired of her spouse and left. When in September, 1908, she heard of her husband's death she applied for his $1500 estate. Judge Graham decided in her favor, cutting off Bose's mother. The mother then appealed, declaring that the widow was not a member of the family, inasmuch as she had deserted her husband. The Supreme Court decided with the mother and ordered the decision reversed.

The wife in her testimony admitted that she didn't know who her husband was and hadn't stopped to find out the nature of his business. He merely proposed marriage, she said, and she accepted. At the time of the marriage she was 27 years old and he was 42.

Thirty Days for Ruining Hat.

Trenton, N. J.—Mrs. Ella Jones did not know as she stood admiring a new hat she had just received by messenger and placed on the floor of her home in this city, that Daniel Dennis was hurrying thither with an important message. Dennis had been promised a drink for quick delivery and did not stop to ring the bell, the door being open. Mrs. Jones called to him too late to be careful. Dennis tripped on a rug as he entered the room and fell with his face in the center of the new hat, scattering it in all directions. Mrs. Jones boxed his ears until he begged for mercy. Then she seized him by the ear with one hand and with the wreck of the hat in the other, led him to the police. He was given 30 days in the workhouse.

Chinese to Lose "Pig Tails."

Washington. — Memoralizing the throne at Peking in favor of abolishing the queue, Wu Ting Fang, former Minister to Washington, has explained how he happened to take that attitude. In his memorial, the text of which has just reached Washigton, Wu says Chinese residents in North, Central and South America have been teased by foreigners until they have implored him to seek an imperial edict giving official sanction to cropping the hair and changing their costume to accord with Western ideas. Wu says he found Chinese everywhere sincerely loyal and patriotic, but eight or nine-tenths of them had divested themselves of their queues or had secreted them by coiling them on the top of their heads.

He Should Start a Pearl Farm.

New York. — Professor Bashford, dean of Columbia University, at a meeting of the Amercan Fisheries Society in the Aquarium told of a secret method of growing pearls by which pearls valued at $200 can be raised for $2. The secret is being guarded so as not to affect the market price of the gems. Professor Bashford said that should the secret become generally known pearls would become as cheap almost as collar buttons.

PROBLEMS IN STATE AND NATIONAL LIFE

Industrial Democracy, Direct Legislation and the "New Nationalism"

By C. H. WHITMAN

The four great political questions which stand to-day in the fore ground of American thought are the Temperance Question, the Labor Question, the Woman Question and the Question of Self Government.

When an individual claims and exercises the right of citizenship—he at the same time assumes a position of responsibility.

In fact as we observe man in his rational activities, his highest characteristic seems to be his sense of responsibility, both individual and social. "Where art thou? and where is thy brother?," are the two great questions of the ages, and they can never be answered without a blush of shame, until the individual shall recognize and discharge his responsibility to society, as well as to himself. Statutory Law, at best, is an attempt on the part of the majority to regulate common action for the public good. The grade or plane of legislation depends in its very nature upon two fundamental factors: first, general economic conditions, and second, the social conscience. As we rise in the scale of rational life the horizon of our social conscience becomes enlarged, and we at once begin to seek some definite plan to lift those less fortunate than ourselves into better conditions. When the environments of any class become unendurable, when its life as a whole is threatened, it becomes aroused and seeks to abolish the cause of the impending danger, by establishing new economic relations, either by evolution through the regular channels of legislation, or, by revolution. No doubt society in some way will take care of itself. If those in authority do not rise to the occasion then undoubtedly history will repeat itself. The record of the past is one of riot, war and bloodshed. Yet society through it all has advanced, but at what fearful cost! The indications are we shall choose the better way, which has been called "the frictionless way," and surely it is the Christian way.

Co-incident with the development of our complex social system, there is coming to society a deeper realizing sense of its obligation to use its concentrated strength for the good of its members, individually and collectively.

Man and woman were placed here on earth to make the most possible of themselves. Every one will assent to this statement, when it is individually applied. Let us hope we are nearing the time when this truth, collectively applied, will be no less manifest. If we would study the question of social life with as much earnestness and enthusiasm as Burbank displays in producing higher types of vegetable life, the slums and sweatshops of our cities would not only be a thing of the past, but our whole economic life would be raised to a much higher plane. Happily, the temperance question is no longer debatable; it has passed to a stage of common thought and purpose. The old slogan "the saloon must go," is being superseded by a later cry, "the nation's going dry."

Undoubtedly the trend of legislation to-day is toward an adjustment of the labor problem, and the enfranchisement of woman, together with her economic freedom. Since woman has entered the field of industry in competition with her brothers, the problem of her enfranchisement has become very much more closely allied to that of economics and must in a large degree rise or fall with the general labor problem.

These questions have passed their theoretical stage. They have entered the political stage.

The relation of the employer to his employee is no longer a question of open or closed shop, though such questions will continue to receive local consideration. The great question is an adjustment in equity, between the man or woman who works for wages and the one who speculates upon the product of that labor. In the evolution of industry one common point of agreement has been reached by a large number of prominent men of affairs, leading students of economics, and a great body of the rank and file of wage workers, namely, that the greatest degree of mutual responsibility between employer and employee is to be attained only by a joint interest in the means of production; that is, the worker must come to own a common interest in the tools by which he makes his living.

In his last annual message to Congress, former President Roosevelt made this statement. "It is necessary that workers shall own a far greater share than at present of the wealth they produce, and be enabled to invest it in the tools and instruments by which all work is carried on;—a larger share in the ownership by wage-workers of railways, mill, and factory." Further he says, "We do not object to the concentration of wealth and administration; but we do believe in the distribution of wealth in profits to the real owners, and in securing to the public the full benefit of the concentrated administration."

Mr. Carnegie, in his book "Problems of To-day," makes the following statements: "Just as the mechanical world has changed and improved, so the world of labor has advanced from the slavery of the laborer, to the day of his absolute independence, and now to this day, when he begins to take his proper place as the capitalist-partner of his employer. We may look forward with hope to the day when it shall be the rule for the workman to be partner with capital, the man of affairs giving his business experience, the working man his mechanical skill, to the company, both owners of the shares, and so far equally interested in the success of their joint efforts, each indispensable, so that without their co-operation success would be impossible." Again Mr. Carnegie says, "Co-partnership tends to bring a realizing sense of the truth to both labor and capital that their interests, broadly considered, are mutual; and as far as the latter is considered it may finally, in some cases, all be furnished by those engaged in the works, which is the ideal that should be held in view—the workman both capitalist and worker, employee and employer."

These are strong statements and significant, coming from men who see clearly the only ground upon which industrial co-operation can be based; that is, a common ownership in the tools of production.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, is even more specific in his statements. He says, "Industry is organized in two camps—tool owners and tool users. How to adjust their mutual interests satisfactorily to both camps constitutes the labor problem. I do not believe they can be satisfactorily adjusted. Satisfaction will come only when the users of the tools, that is, the workers with brain, the laborers and superintendents, the men who produce for the market and the men who find a market for the articles produced, own the tools and instruments by which the work is carried on." "The perpetual problem between working men and capitalists will not be settled until the workingmen become capitalists." "We can not hark back to the individualism of the past. We can not forego the advantages which machinery, organization, and division of labor have given us. We can not abolish the railway and go back to the stage-coach, the planing mill and go back to the village carpenter, the woolen-mill and go back to the domestic spinning wheel and loom." "We can go forward to an era of joint ownership of railway, mill and factory. Such joint ownership and joint control of all joint enterprises is the dream of 'Industrial Democracy'." "I am an Industrial Democrat", says Mr. Abbott, "because I wish to see the men who are carrying on the industries of the country own the instruments and control the organizations by which they are carried on."

These three distinguished leaders of American thought, representing political action, business achievement, and national ethics are with one voice outlining the policy to be urged upon the employing class and indicating the general trend of future legislation.

While national legislation can at best only follow the economic conditions which prevail, it is very evident the dominant party in this country is maneuvering for a change of front respecting labor interests.

If their plans mature with any degree of perfection the strike and the lock-out, in all the larger concerns will be a thing of the past, for the worker will be a joint owner in the business.

During the next four years if we mistake not, national legislation will greatly facilitate this general scheme of industrial union.

As to solving the labor problem, however, this scheme for the union of labor and capital under corporation control will hardly touch the edge of it. The statements of these men of prominence are of importance chiefly because they acknowledge the settlement of this much vexed problem can only come when the workmen own the tools with which they labor. This is the fundamental contention of every scientific student of labor conditions the world over.

The people of the United States are surely waking up. They are beginning to realize that order and system are laws of life and run through every intelligent activity with which man deals, except the one question of man's relation to his fellow man, in his method of making a living.

The present turn in the tide of political affairs is only a determined effort on the part of the common people to govern themselves.

The workers of the nation are fast learning what they want and they have found the one method by which to obtain it. That is, Direct Legislation—through the Initiation, Referendum, and Recall.

Already eight states have adopted this system of government. Several more states will adopt it at this coming election. The whole insurgency movement is but a reflection of this general uprising. The New Democracy under the impulse of the people is a movement that needs to be encouraged by every intelligent voter as the natural check upon the spirit of the New Nationalism which is sweeping the country under the leadership of La Follete, Pinchot and Roosevelt. The two principles working together will undoubtedly prove a blessing to the people. But a strong central government with a man of power and blood at the helm, in these very delicate and sensitive times could easily throw the country into a revolution.

What California most needs at this particular time is to push ahead with the more progressive states. Now that we have a Direct Primary Law, let us urge Direct Legislation for state, county and city.

Our present method of using the referendum in voting constitutional amendments is a step in the right direction, and a proof that the real sentiment of the people is in advance of the laws. We are writing the will of the voters into the constitution whenever the Legislature permits us to express an opinion. We should have the right to initiate or propose a measure and then vote it into law as well as to pass upon a Constitutional amendment. Give us the Initiative and Referendum after the Oregon plan where eight per cent. of the voters can initiate legislation, and California will solve her part of the Temperance question, the Woman question and the Labor question as speedily as a state can do it.

Diplomatic.

The late Lord Savile used to say that high diplomatists had always to be on their guard against intriguing women, mainly Russian agents, who would use any wile to extract information. During the Russo-Turkish war, when Europe was always on the verge of a crisis and Russian statesmen were most anxious to know what England would do under given circumstances, a lady came up to him suddenly at a ball and said:

"I hear that the Russians have made a forced march and entered Constantinople," hoping, no doubt, that he would be surprised into some indiscreet expression.

He merely replied:

"Indeed! And I suppose the sultan has conferred on them the order of the Turkish bath!"

The lady continued gravely:

"And they say in Paris that if England does not interfere the eastern question is settled in favor of Russia."

"And that," replied his excellency, "is, I suppose, the new judgment of Paris."

A Curious Trap.

A curious labyrinth in which elephants are captured alive is to be seen near Ayuthia, formerly the capital of Siam. The labyrinth is formed of a double row of immense tree trunks set firmly in the ground, the space between them gradually narrowing. Where it begins, at the edge of the forest, the opening of the labyrinth is more than a mile wide, but as it approaches Ayuthia it becomes so narrow that the elephants cannot turn around. Suspecting no danger, the wild elephant enters the broad opening at the forest end, lured on by a tame elephant. The gradual narrowing of the boundaries is not observed until the elephant finds himself in close quarters. Having reached the end of the labyrinth, the tame elephant is allowed to pass through a gate, while men lying in wait slip shackles over the feet of the captives. The sport is a dangerous one, for the enraged elephants sometimes crush the hunters under their feet.

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure,

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

GREAT ORGANIZATIONS ENDORSE TAX FOR FAIR

Fraternal and Labor Bodies of State Pledge Aid at Polls to Help Win Panama-Pacific Exposition.

San Francisco.—Representatives of thirty fraternal grand bodies met the California Legislative Committee of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in the board room of the Merchants' Exchange and in the heartiest terms, without reservation of any kind, pledged themselves to secure the votes of their members for the constitutional amendments which are to enable California and San Francisco to raise ten million dollars for the exposition fund.

Chairman James McNab, at whose call the conference was held, was fairly overwhelmed by the enthusiasm. Thirty organizations with from ten thousand to fifty thousand members each will go to the polls all over the State on November 8th and as one man will support the measures which are to bring the Panama-Pacific International Exposition to San Francisco in 1915.

The whole-hearted speech of Daniel A. Ryan, grand president of the Native Sons of the Golden West, sounded the note which dominated the conference. He said:

"In every wayside village of California, in every mountain hamlet and in every city of this State there are Native Sons of the Golden West, and knowing them as I do, knowing their pride and loyalty and their love for their State, I can pledge the vote of 21,000 Californians to the measures which are to carry us into the greatest period of our history with the opening of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. That is not all. Among these thousands there are hundreds who can and will exert a telling influence on the Congressmen in whose hands the awarding of the Exposition lies."

Cleveland Dam, representing organized labor, guaranteed that every man in California would be made to realize the deep significance to California of the Panama-Pacific Exposition—to that it means the development of the West, the cultivation of farms, the coming of railroads, of factories and mills, and to realize that it was for the best interests of the individuals as well as for the glory and power of the whole State.

Chairman James McNab explained the business of the conference and told of the work which had been outlined by the committee to secure the solid vote of the State for the constitutional amendments—the Senate amendment, No. 52, and the Assembly amendment, No. 33, the one to permit of the State tax to raise $5,000,000 in four annual installments of $1,250,000 each, and the other to allow the city of San Francisco to so amend the charter as to bond herself for $5,000,000.

Chairman McNab showed clearly how the tax would be a very light one on the State and that San Francisco would bear the principal burden.

W. H. Barnes, past grand master of the Odd Fellows, pledged the support of his brothers in the State for the amendments and told of the sentiment for San Francisco which exists throughout the country in his order, offering his assistance in every way to secure the assistance of every Odd Fellow in the United States for San Francisco and the exposition. Dr. Morrissey of the Knights of Columbus similarly pledged himself and his associates and told of the work already done by his order in support of the Panama-Pacific movement.

William Boyle of the Ancient Order of Hibernians told of the enthusiastic carrying of resolutions for the Panama-Pacific Exposition at the last national convention held at Portland in July, and indicated the sentiment of the order by tendering promises of its support at the State and the county conventions.

The Order of Railroad Employees will devote two pages of their official organ to exposition news.

C. A. Guglielmoni, grand secretary of the United and Ancient Order of Druids, offered as many pages as the committee desired in the official organ for the purpose of advertising the amendment.

Joseph B. Reboli, grand secretary of the Foresters of America, declared that his lodge is willing to carry out any suggestions that the comittee may make.

W. H. Remiss, representative of organized labor, told the committee that organized labor fully realized the importance of the exposition and that it had been carrying out an active programme on its own account, preparing literature, sending circulars and asking the indorsements of the various conventions.

George A. Stanley of the Young Men's Institute said that his members were enthusiastic in the matter of the exposition and that the amendments would be carefully explained and their importance pointed out. A. S. Nelson of the National Union, A. H. Merrill of the Royal Arcanum of California, Frank Brew of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, B. M. Camara of the Portuguese Society of California, E. G. Brugge of the Order of Hermann's Sons, John Falconer of the Ancient Order of Foresters, W. B. Montgomery of the Order of Railroad Employees, I. J. Aschheim of the Grand Lodge of I. O. B. B., T. B. Fugazzi of the Young Men's Institute, John Herrmann of the German-American League, George W. Merrill of the Loyal Legion, and Gustave McGregor of the Elks—all these spoke in enthusiastic terms of the work.

Expert Opinion.

What is the use of a child's going to school to learn mere grammar? Such evidently is the opinion of the mother of a girl whose teacher instructed her to purchase a book on that subject. According to a writer in the Burr Oak Herald, Lulu came back the next day with this explanatory letter:

I do not desire for Lulu shall ingage in grammar, as I prefer her ingage in yuseful studies, and can learn her how to spoke and write properly myself. I have went through two grammars, and I can't say as they did me any good, I prefer her ingage in german and drawing and vocal music on the piano.

ART OF WRITING VERY OLD

New Discoveries Carry Back Existence of Written Documents Centuries Beyond Phoenician Record.

The revelations made at the remains of a great prehistoric palace at Knossos, in Crete, which is believed to be the original of the fabled "Labyrinth," would seem to carry back the existence of written documents on Greek soil some eight centuries beyond the earliest known monuments of Greek writing and five centuries beyond the earliest dated Phoenician record as seen on the Moabite stone.

These discoveries, therefore, place the whole question of the origin of writing on a new basis. It is thought that the Cretan hieroglyphs exactly correspond with what, in virtue of their names, we must suppose to have been the pictorial originals of the Phoenician letters on which the alphabet is based.

Among these are Aleph, the ox's head; Beth, the house; Daleth, the door, and so forth. This contravenes the old theory of De Rouge that the Phoenician letters were derived from early Egyptian forms signifying quite different objects.

The End of Her Rope.
The fact that Johnny was to compete for a prize for jumping was of little interest to Mrs. Halloran, if, indeed, she even knew it; what interested her was the train of disaster which accompanied his daily existence.

"Johnny's broke the school record," announced Mr. Halloran, triumphantly through the cloud of soapy steam which surrounded Mrs. Halloran and the wash tubs.

"Well, now, you can tend to that job yourself, Mike Halloran," returned his spouse, arms akimbo. "I've mended the front gate and the back gate, three chairs and a table that he's broke, all wid me own hands, but whativer he's broke at school you can look afther, or pay for having it done, and save the money on your pipe—an' that's me last word!"

In the Spring.

It was housecleaning time, and Mr. Stubb was removing the dusty pictures from the walls. The frames slipped, the stepladder creaked ominously, and the perspiration rolled from Mr. Stubb's brow. In the humor to bite a nail in half, he turned and discovered Mrs. Stubb laughing.

"That's it!" he roared, as the stepladder swayed. "Laugh and show your gold teeth."

And still she laughed.

"Do you think there is anything funny in my moving these pictures?" he spluttered, in fiery tones.

"No, indeed, John," said Mrs. Stubb, soothingly, "but you know you look so funny, it looks like a moving picture show."

Then Mr. Stubb swallowed a pint of dust and simply fumed.

"You may not like it at first, Mr. Newcome," he said, "for our street has kind o' run down, and nobody that amounts to a pinch of snuff ever comes here to live any more—that is—I mean, that's the way they talk about our street, but it isn't exactly true, for we have had sometimes just as good citizens as you'll find anywhere; the family that occupied that house you've just moved into were exceptionally nice people, and we were sorry to see them move away, because you never can tell what kind of—er—people will come next, you know—might be the cheapest kind of skates, you see—I'm not speaking of anybody personally—or, rather, I am—for one is likely to be too polite to—h'm!—perfect strangers, and—eh—encourage them to borrow things when you—by the way, Mr. Newcome, do you think the Cubs stand any chance of winning the championship this year?"—Chicago Tribune.

High School Notes

This year the pupils of the High School have the advantage of musical instruction under Professor Milton Lawrence of San Jose where he is well-known as a music teacher. Besides giving vocal instruction to the whole school, Prof. Lawrence conducts a technical class in the theory of music and harmony. The large number in the class gives evidence of splendid interest in the work.

Outside of the Freshmen Class we have several new students with us this year. We are glad to welcome Miss S. Rice as a Sophomore and Miss M. Lyon and Mr. Benjamin Capp as Juniors. Two of our former students are with us again this year as Juniors,—Miss Myra Hoag and Mr. Ralph Mitchell, and one as a Senior, Miss Byrona Bennett.

A fine program has been prepared for the first meeting of the Philosophia Literary Society for the year. The society has made a good start and great things are expected of it.

The A. A. A. has held a meeting and elected managers for the different athletic teams. Mr. Rob Kennedy is the baseball manager, Mr. Lloyd Macy, the basketball manager and Mr. Carl Sholtz, the track manager.

The student body annual fee has been raised from ($.50) fifty cents to one dollar. The school is larger and the needs of the school are greater. The size of the treasury will now permit the school to complete the year without the numerous small assessments usually levied.

The Freshmen held their first party of the year at the home of Mr. Alfred Austin on Friday evening, September 30th. The Freshmen demonstrated their ability to enjoy themselves in their characteristic way.

The school was saddened Tuesday morning by the announcement that Mr. Espin Mitchell had passed away at his home near Saratoga. Mr. Mitchell attended high school here for two years but his health did not permit him to continue. He was very active in all the departments of the school and his popularity was due to his hearty good nature. Since then he has battled against his enemy, tuberculosis, for over two years and finally succumbed to that dreaded disease on Monday night. The funeral was held from his home near Saratoga on Thursday afternoon. Many of his old High School friends attended the funeral. His many friends among the Seniors and the alumni extend their sincerest sympathy to his parents and relatives.

Last Tuesday evening the members o the Methodist Church gathered in large numbers to honor the return of Rev. and Mrs. John F. Wilson for another year. RICHMOND

"The Pittsburg of the West."

WHY?

The Standard Oil Co., The Pullman Car Company., The Southern Pacific R. R. Co., and Santa Fe R. R. Co., have invested over Thirty Million of Dollars ($30,000,000.00) since 1900. SOME OF THE OTHERS: Associated Oil Co., Berkeley Steel Works, California Wine Association (largest Winery in the world), Great Western Brick Co., California Cap Co., Central Brick Co., East Shore Railway (35 miles of street railway), Healy & Tibbitts Quarry Co., Standard Can Factory, San Pablo Quarry Co., Los Angeles Brick Co., The Western Pipe & Steel Co., Stove Foundry, Richmond Furniture Factory, Metropolitan Cap Factory, United States Briquetts Co., Richmond Lumber Co., Compressed Asphalt Brick Co., Tilden & Eakle Lumber Co., Shaw-Harrington Gas Engine Co., Richmond Cut Stone Factory, Pacific Porcelain Ware Co., The Western Pole & Piling Co., California Chair Co., Arctic Oil Co., and more than twenty other industries too numerous to enumerate. NEW FACTORIES COMING IN ALL THE TIME!

WHY? Because Richmond has advantages not equalled in California—14 miles on deep water front—RICHMOND is the outlet of the great California Oil Fields, making fuel at the very lowest cost for factory, railroad and steamship purposes. Being the terminus of the pipe lines from California's oil fields Richmond becomes the basing point from which prices are regulated. In proportion as the distance increases or diminishes from Richmond, the price of fuel oil must fluctuate. Our entire navy is now being supplied from this source. TWENTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS of improvements projected for the next eighteen months.

CAN YOU BEAT IT?—From a population of less than 100 to a population of over 18,000 in ten years—CAN YOU BEAT IT?

RICHMOND IS bound to become the largest manufacturing city on the Pacific Coast monthly payroll NOW $400,000.00. Richmond is absolutely independent of San Francisco, and is the only bay city that can truly say the same. Richmond was good enough for such masters of finance as Rockefeller, Ripley, Harriman and The Pullmans to invest millions of dollars there. Is it not good enough for you? Follow their example before it is too late and property too high for you to buy. DONT TELL YOUR CHILDREN TWENTY YEAR FROM NOW WHAT YOU COULD HAVE BOUGHT THESE LOTS FOR, they won't think any more of you. SEE! LOOK! THINK! CANNOT YOU SEE THE FUTURE OF RICHMOND? When the Pullman Car Co. located at Chicago that city did not give half the promise that RICHMOND does today.
